Such a disease is that attributed to the book worm or "lazy" parasite, which has reached the proportions of an epidemic in the South and for the eradication of which John D. Rockefeller has given $1,000,000 to be expended in the next five years. The disease is a result of neglect to medical research have been among the most notable benefactors of the day.

IN EARLY DAYS OF COFFEE

Beverage Met with Strong Disapproval of English Sellers of Strong Liqueur.

There is a quaint reference to coffee in Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy." "The Turks," writes Burton, "have a drink called coffee (for they used no wine), so named of a berry as black as soot and as bitter (like that black drink which was in use among the Lacedaemonians, and perhaps the same), which they sip still of, and sup as warm as they can suffer; they spend much time in those coffee houses, which are somewhat like our own ale houses or taverns, and there they sit chatting and drinking to drive away the time and to be merry together, because they find by experience that kind of drink is helpful to helpeth digestion and procureth alacrity."

The introduction of coffee into this country dates from the period of the protectorate, says the London Chronicle. According to a restoration pamphlet, "Coffee and commonwealth came in together." The first coffee house in London was established in 1652 by Pasqua Rosee, the Armenian servant of a city merchant. Others were quick to follow. Naturally the publicans and owners of licensed houses viewed these innovations with alarm. Mr. Hackwood in his recently published book on "The Inns, Ales and Drinking Customs of Old England," recalls the case of one James Parre, who was accused of "making and selling a drink called coffee, whereby in packaging the same he annoyed his neighbors by evil smells, and for keeping of fire for the most part night and day, whereby his chimney and chamber hath been set on fire, to the great danger and affrontment of his neighbors."

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS

TREASURER OF BIG FOUR IN CINCINNATI ADMITS GUILT.

Trusted Man Blames Stock Speculation for His Losses—Dismissed from the Service.

New York, Nov. 3.—C. L. Warriner, local treasurer of the Big Four railroad in Cincinnati, on November 2 confessed to several high officials of the New York Central Co., which owns the Big Four, that he was short in his accounts to an amount thus far undetermined. Vice President J. C. Carstensen, who has general charge of the accounting department of the New York Central lines, went to Cincinnati a few days ago to make some changes in the local treasury office there.

He had no suspicion that anything was wrong with Warriner's accounts until an examination of the books showed irregularities for which Warriner could not account. At the request of Mr. Carstensen Warriner accompanied him to New York.

They arrived here November 2 and immediately went into conference with Vice President E. V. W. Rosier, who has charge of the New York Central's financial department and A. H. Harris, vice president and general counsel of the Big Four. In the course of three hours Warriner broke down completely and told his inquisitors that he was short in his accounts to an amount that he was unable to guess. He was immediately dismissed from the service and was permitted to start on his return to Cincinnati.

Warriner has lived in that city most of his life. His standing there has been high in business and society circles. His wife is prominent in church affairs as well as in society. They have two sons, one of whom is about grown. Warriner is between 45 and 50 years old. Up to six years ago he was cashier in the general offices of the Big Four in Cincinnati. Then he was promoted to the treasurer's office. Warriner blames stock speculation for his losses.

GIBBONS AGAINST SUFFRAGE

Archbishop of Baltimore Says Votes for Women Would Be Death Blow to Domestic Life.

New York, Nov. 3.—In a letter to the National League for the Civic Education for Women, an anti-suffrage organization, Cardinal Gibbons says: "I regret greatly that I cannot attend the meeting called for November 1. Although my many duties will not allow me to be present at your meeting, I beg to assure you that I am most heartily in sympathy with the aim of your league, and I approve most strongly the stand it has taken in opposing woman suffrage, which, if realized, would be the death blow of domestic life and happiness."

Senator Elihu Root also wrote a letter of regret that he was unable to be present, in which he expressed his sympathy with the cause, and said: "I think your association is doing very valuable and important work."

PEARY IS GIVEN THE HONOR

National Geographic Society Indorses Commander as the Finder of the North Pole.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Commander Robert E. Peary practically was inducted as a discoverer of the North Pole by the National Geographic Society on November 2. Every indication points to the fact that Peary's personal statement before the subcommittee of the society convinced its members that he had set foot upon the top of the world. The explorer has been invited to deliver the first of his public lectures before the society here on November 12, and it was pointed out that had the proofs been open to the slightest question he never would have been asked to appear.

Cure Your Dandruff

Why? Because it is annoying, untidy. And mostly, because it almost invariably leads to baldness. Cure it, and save your hair. Get more, too, at the same time. All easily done with Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula. Stop this formation of dandruff!

Does not change the color of the hair.

Formula with each bottle. Show it to your doctor. Ask him about it, then do as he says.

The new Ayer's Hair Vigor will certainly do this work, because, first of all, it destroys the germs which are the original cause of dandruff. Having given this aid, nature completes the cure. The scalp is restored to a perfectly healthy condition.

Yes, Indeed

There is a difference. The surest proof that my eye examination is the most satisfactory is that my business is constantly increasing—of course, the other fellows have to live and I don't want all the business. I prefer people who appreciate the value of their eyes and who are only satisfied with the best, especially when the cost is less than for poor work.
